Chapter 1 by PuppyLover

This is a Science fiction, and whats weird about this science fiction is that I am horrible at science. So without further ado, the Science fiction.

Life is made up of many things. But the main thing that it's made up off is "food". You wouldn't be living right now if it weren't for "food". :) Or would you?

Smash!

Chapter 2 by R

"Food" is hard to define, you know, but it's easy to understand. It's interesting, however, to note how the word changes it's usage.

The year is 2073. Food is something for the rich.

That sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? Well it is. Nowadays everyone has little bio-organic transmitters in their cells that teleport the necessary molecules. Much more efficient - there is very little waste product to get rid of.

There's just this one tiny little problem. It's an unavoidable side effect.
